FOOTBALL

There is a great closeness on a football team, a rapport between the young men and the coach that's like no other sport. It's a binding together, a knitting together. For me, it's like father and son, and that's why I love it so much.

Football teaches the old-fashioned America virtues of teamwork, loyalty, cooperation, and reverence for authority. These seem, to some, to be curiously out of touch with the realities of the world in which we live today.

As Vince Lombardi once said, "If we would create something, we must be something. We make a mistake unless we keep working to win, to win, and to win. I think confidence and pride help you to win."

general co-op

Lucille Miller

The General Cooperative Education Club was started at Sylvan Hills High School during the school year 1970-1971. Each member of the General Cooperative Class is a member. The club has the business meetings during the regular class period, since all of the students are on the job working in the afternoons. An employer-employee banquet is being planned for the month of March. Each student will be host to his employer and entertainment will be furnished. This is a new program that has been started in Arkansas during this school year. However, the emblem for the club and club colors have been chosen. The emblem is a star with the different fields of work listed on it. The colors are black on gold.

Plagued by the lack of experience and funds, the enthusiasm of the journalism department prevailed over all adversity by the beginning of second semester. Blood, sweat, toil, and tears, of the journalism department have made it one of the leaders of the school. Most people don't realize the hard work that goes into the paper: the intense pressures of meeting a deadline, the intense brain-frying work over a light-board, the quiet, tedious work of the darkroom. At their moon-lighting sessions which boast of spooks, one may witness the hustle and bustle and the flying fingers of a staff hard at work. Accuracy and preciseness must be glued to their minds with rubber cement. All of this and more make up an ideal journalism staff, our journalism staff.

The Girls' Chorus is a group of dedicated and talented girls interested in furthering their musical talents. The Girls' Chorus performs before the student body and in evening concerts in the spring and fall.

The high school band is the major performing instrumental group. The 64 members devote much of their free time taking an active part in all band activities including clinics, concerts, and musical competition. The chief objective of this organization is the serious training of young musicians. Hours of individual practice and a creative atmosphere have resulted in nothing but superior and excellent ratings for the past four years.

Band Co-Captains - Tony Sanders
Donna Williams
Senior Representative - Dee Ann Witcher
Junior Representative - Janet Cobb
Sophomore Representative - Richard Dockins
Administrative Lieutenant - John Moss
Logistics Lieutenant - David Ogden
Sergeant-at-Arms - Ricky Justice
Librarian - Sharon Smith
Historian - Barbara Bolin

stage band

Popular and electronic music, strobes and light boxes added to the somewhat startling impact of the Stage Band "71" assembly. This new musical style was widely acclaimed by students and faculty alike.

Clancy McDowell completed his third and final year as drum-major.

Each year, at the spring concert, the band members award the John Philip Sousa Award to a deserving member. He must possess the qualities of leadership, musicianship and friendship in order to be presented this coveted award. Last year's recipient was Miss Gail Hamilton.

MAJORETTES:
Paula Anderson
Beth Anderson
Nikki Worrell
Linda Brune
Mona Jones

Many extra hours of rehearsal and practice are required for our Majorettes. Their fire baton routine to "The Red Phantom" was considered by many as the best performance of our majorettes in several years.

Perfection is the goal for members of the Sylvan Hills High School marching band. Many hours of individual practice and an eager attitude made this year's marching band a true success.

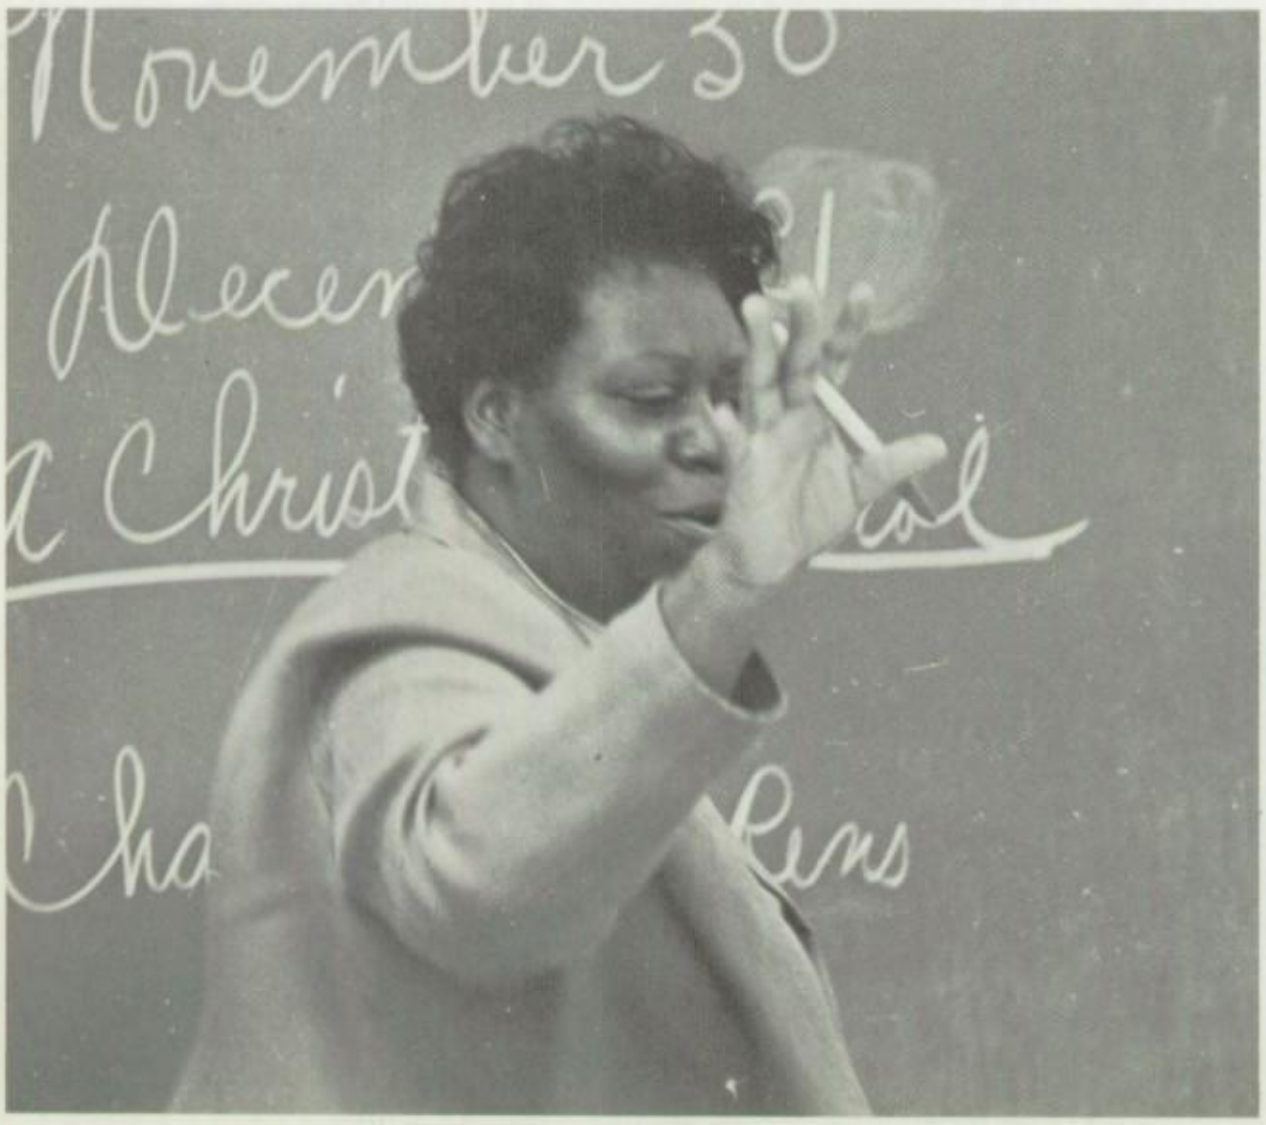
Stage-fright, st ... st ... stuttering, debater worry, semester tests, relief, happiness, applause, and trophies. Students most often refer to these when thinking of Speech. Speech ranges from the calm relief and satisfaction after a well-delivered speech to the let-down and embarrassment of your first-bombed-out speech.



Nouns and verbs and crazy clauses plus Whitman, Chaucer, and Poe sprinkled with alliteration and personification make the courses of communication into a "tender monster" for students. The English Department at Sylvan Hills is resolved to give the students the benefit of efficient grammar and literature and an in-depth look into human relations. The latter seems to be the student's favorite, but it is realized that all are equally important for a complete individual ready to face the ever-changing world.

This subject not only teaches the student how to speak, understand, and read Spanish, but it also reveals the Spanish culture. It gives the student an opportunity to know how people in another country live and work. Since Spanish is rated high on the list of most spoken languages, it will be very profitable in many ways.

Choir enables a person to express their singing ability while developing it at the same time. This calls for dedication of the student in all respects. In the end, self-confidence plays the biggest part in a choir student's training. Throughout the year, the choral department presents entertaining programs for all to enjoy. The chance to perform in District and State Competition are two much hoped for highlights of the year.

The art students are occupied with decorating our school. Their works are displayed in the library and throughout the school. The students learn to appreciate art and learn to be more creative and imaginative. They lean toward modern art which is revealed in their works.

Band develops a deep appreciation of music and to perform before audiences. He also gets the satisfaction of mastering an instrument. They keep spirit in the school by performing at football games and pep assemblies.

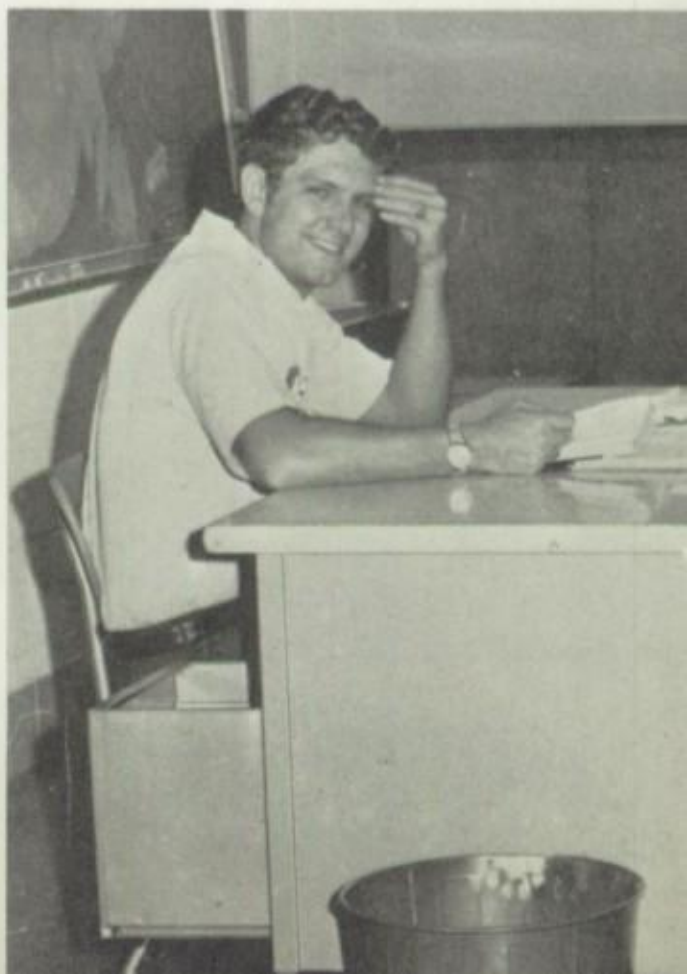
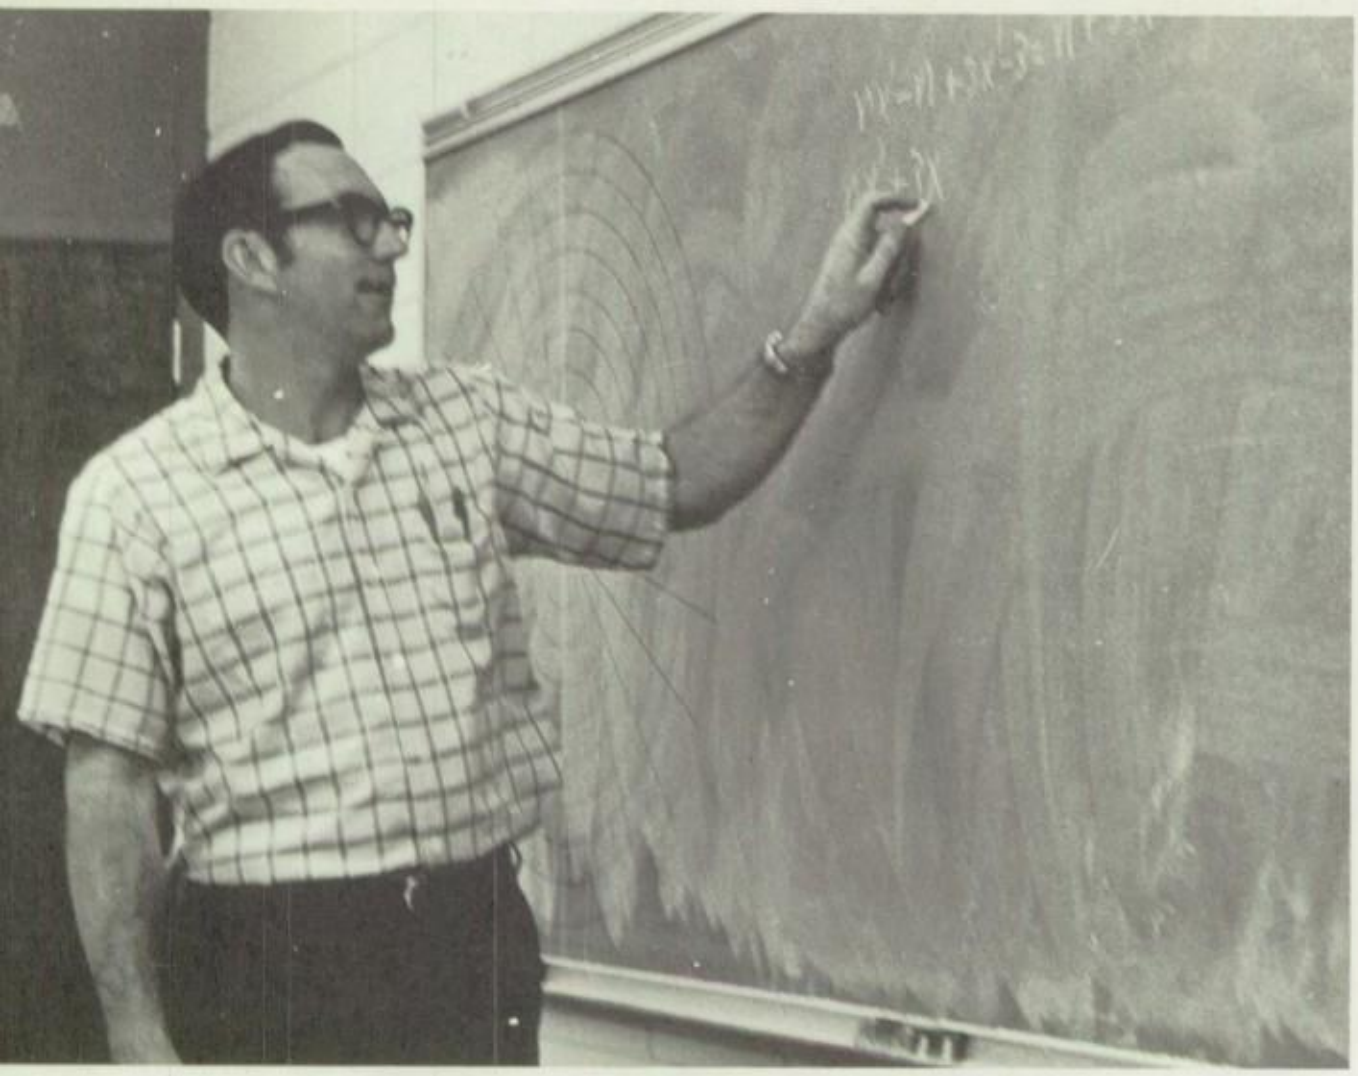
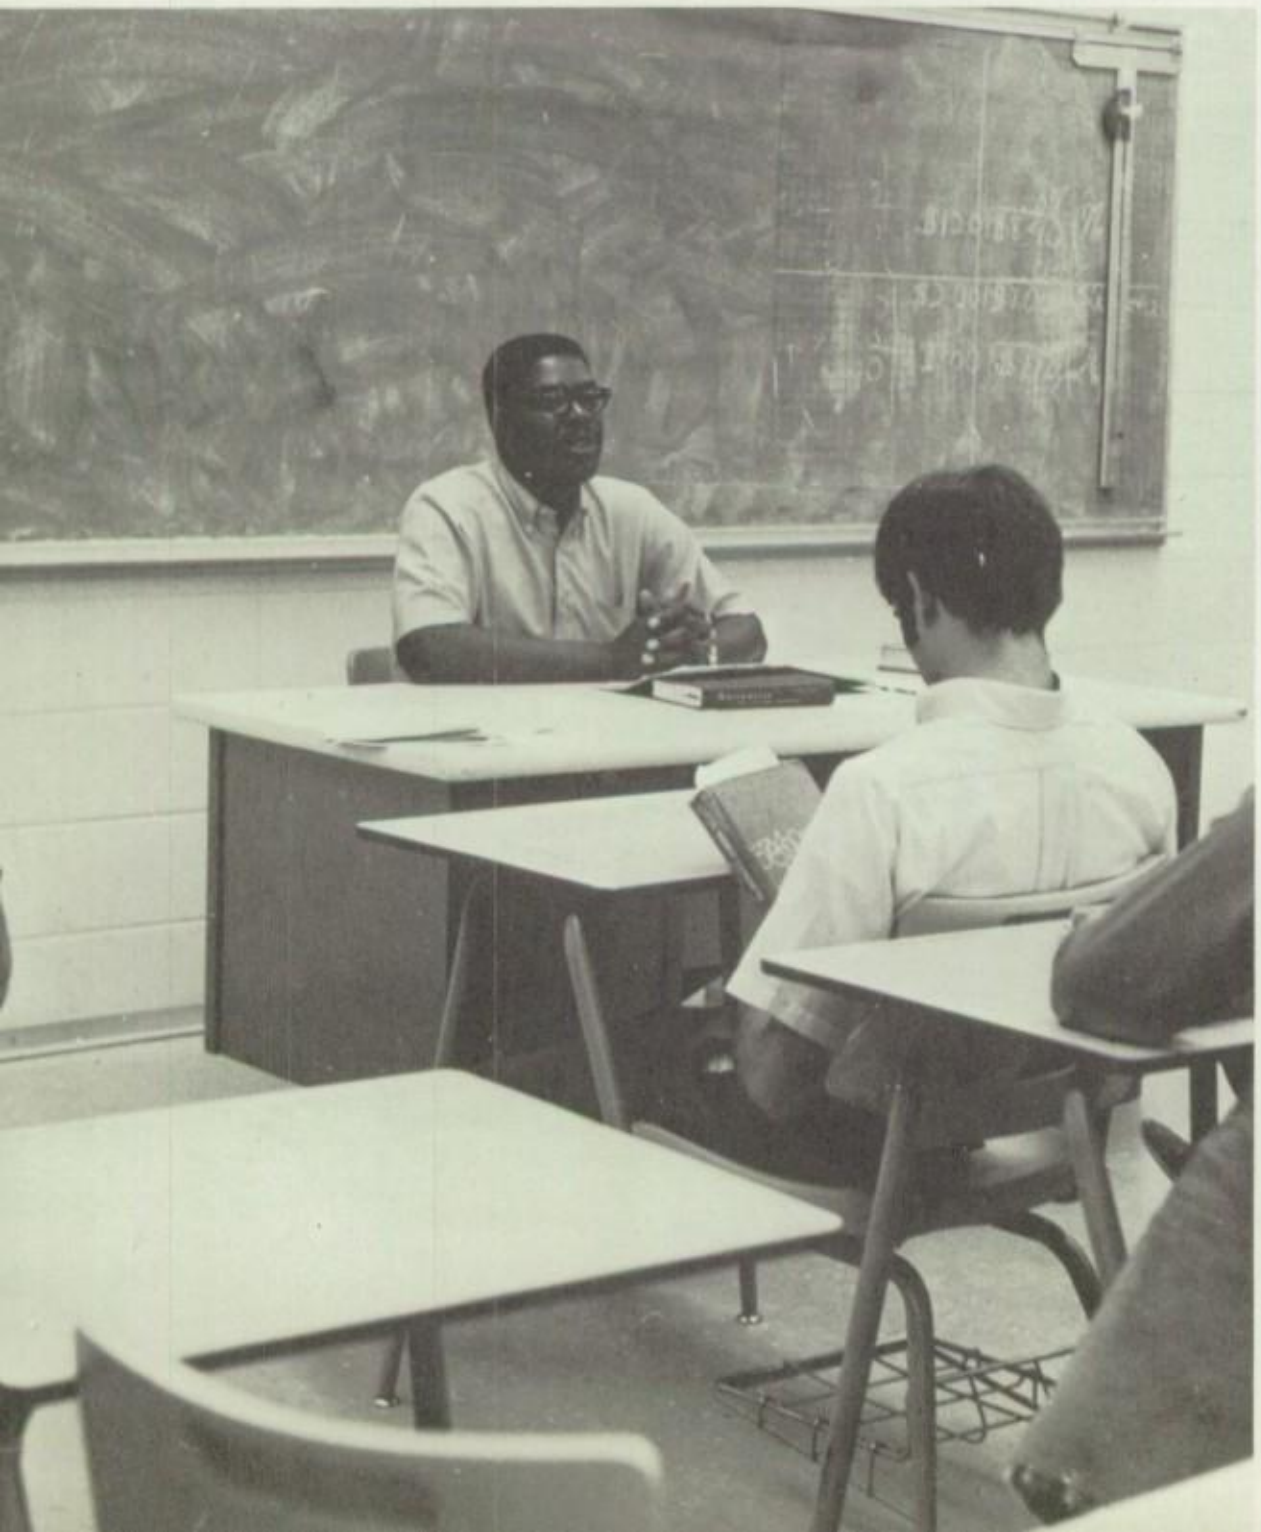
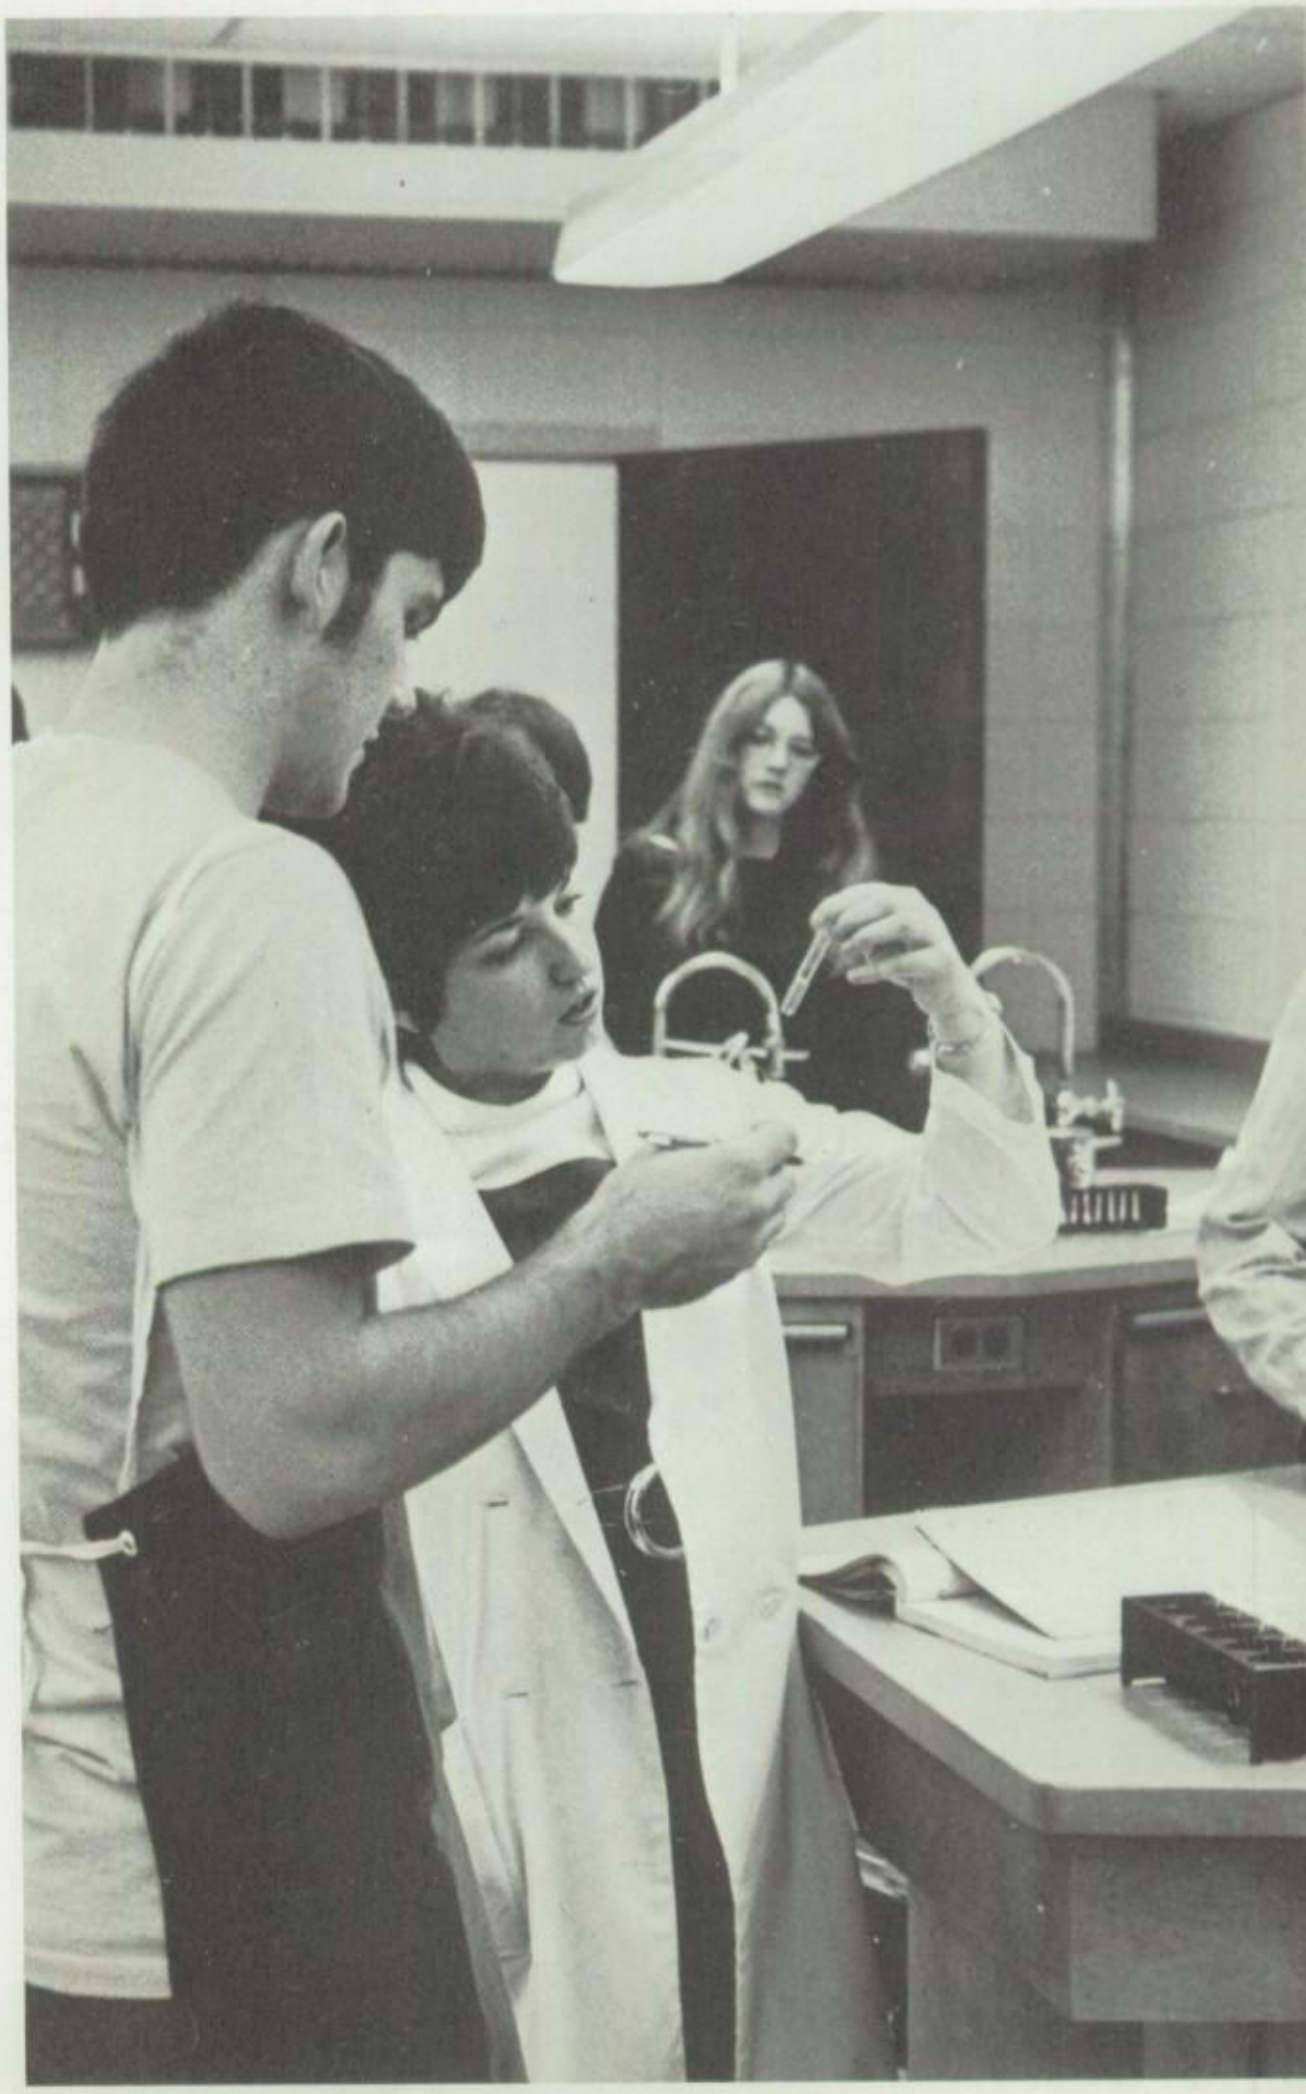
At times, you wonder what's it's about. Five years ago it was tough to add fractions but nowadays we concern ourselves with such niceties as imaginary, complex and negative numbers, not to mention the extraction of real and rational roots from a quadratic equation. This is in one of the easier classes, Algebra II. The teachers still expect you to try to understand what they write on their less than enviable "spotless" blackboards. The next year they give up; to quote an outstanding junior, "It's for logical minds;" nobody is logical around here. In trig you look at the same ole' chalkboard; instead of $7x$ and $o.00a_2$. you look at $4(y-x)^2 2\ 0\ (x-h)^2 = 999\ 2/3$. A hyperbola, (mind inspiring aren't they? The teachers don't expect much; they're trying to figure it out, too.)





"Who stole the blueprints!", cries the Midnight Cowboy. The big bear hits the dummy over the head with the T square. A bewildered student cries, "I can't find the lead to my pencil. Truthfully, Mr. Henze is a very devoted teacher who has done much for our school. His students are very hard-working and quite constructive. One of their major activities was working diligently on our float for the Governor's Inaugural Parade which was highly complimented.





Peering under the microscope, one has second thoughts about what he's looking at. Watery eyes come about because of the irritating fumes of formaldehyde. Dissecting worms is a ball until you find out that today's lunch includes spaghetti. Experiments with cells dotted with iodine, breaking slides, memorizing phylums, and sleeping through films are all just in a regular day. Each student has the special feeling that the information he's filling out in his Lab Manual will someday contribute to the technological advancement of the world.

Beware!! Beware of the lead-footed, light-headed maniacs behind the wheel of the car marked DRIVER'S EDUCATION! Actually, the students learn just the opposite. They learn to become sensible and law-abiding drivers. They are are taught to respect a car and treat it like a machine instead of treating it like a toy. This is a very beneficial course open to all students of 16 years of age.

If Millard Fillmore died from drinking too much lemonade on a hot day, then it's certainly possible that Ben Franklin carried on "correspondences" with notable French ladies. These are the bits of history that whet student's appetites to dig up more buried years for further dissection. History can't come alive unless the students involve themselves and realize that they are both the products and the producers of history. After all the memorization of dates and deeds, great and infamous, students come to this conclusion: Those Romans really knew how to live!

mr. bob taylor

Concern, dedication, talent, and an unswerving drive for perfection. This man possesses all of these qualities. His concern is for his students. To him the teaching of his students is a pleasure. He is dedicated to the point of radical extreme. Those who don't know him, would not realize that it is out of concern and care for his students. His talent is boundless. To work under him is an honor and a privilege. Through his effort and concern, his department at Sylvan Hills has become one of the best in the state. He works for perfection. He feels that if it isn't attainable, it doesn't exist. He cares for his students and his art. For these reasons we dedicate this book to you, Mr. Bob Taylor.

While other classes have the task of developing the mind, the P.E. department is concerned with developing the body and spirit. This is carried out through participation in such sports as basketball, football, volleyball, trampoline, soccer, and others. Participation in sports develops the body, reflexes, sportsmanship, and teamwork. These will all be of vital importance in the future.

in conclusion

The purpose of a yearbook is to portray school life. School life takes on two forms: emotional and factual occurances. Factual information must be dealt with in an effective, interesting manner to insure the historical value of the yearbook.

Emotions, the raw material for remembrances, are intangible; a smile, a gesture, a look, a shake of the head. These and more are the things a yearbook strives to capture and preserve for you. Many years from now this presentation will help you remember the joy and the sorrow, the hopes and aspirations, the work and play of this ending year.

Photography this year has improved vastly due to student interest and advanced training. With increased student interest the photography will improve even more next year. Training of this year's staff has been greatly expanded due to the efforts of Mr. Wayne Goodrich whom I would like to thank for his concern.

Mere words could not express my deep appreciation for Mr. Brook's cooperation in allowing this year's annual to become a very student publication.

Many hours have gone into the production of the annual. I would like to take advantage of this space to thank all of you who have taken part in its publication. The success of any production hinges on the support given it by the student body. You have made this annual good. You can make it outstanding. You can make it the GREATEST!

Billye,

I did know you well

Billy,

It's been very nice ~~k~~nowing you this year. I haven't known you very long but I have found in you a true friend. From what I know of you your a nice, sweet, innocent, very rare, odd, stupid, ignorant, dumb, and sometimes, but not often, a good friend. Maybe I'll see you skating this summer, (If a stroke of bad ~~luck~~ luck hits me) and good luck in your junior year.
